

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

- 1 Daylight Savings Changed
- 1 Vista Breaks QuickBooks
- 2 Delta Employees make a splash at True/False
- 2 MORE New Websites

Daylight Savings Starts THIS WEEKEND: Your Computer Needs to Be Patched

Starting in the spring of 2007, daylight saving time (DST) start and end dates for the United States will change to comply with the Energy Policy Act of 2005. DST dates in the US will start three weeks earlier than usual, at 2:00 A.M. on the second Sunday in March and will end one week later than usual, at 2:00 A.M. on the first Sunday in November.

What should you do?

PCs

Microsoft has a great Update guide at http://support.microsoft.com/gp/cp_dst

Macs

Apple has a very useful site with all the updates you need at <http://docs.info.apple.com/article.html?artnum=305056>

If you'd like a Delta technician to come out to help ensure your workstations and servers are updated, please call us ASAP. Timeslots are filling quickly but we do have a few slots open later this week.

Microsoft Vista Breaks QuickBooks

Microsoft recently released a new operating system. Windows Vista is designed to replace Windows XP.

According to Intuit, "Since QuickBooks 2006 and earlier versions were developed and released before the introduction of Windows Vista, these versions may be adversely affected when used on a computer running Windows Vista. ...

If you do NOT upgrade to Windows Vista - No action is required.

If you choose to upgrade to Windows Vista - We recommend that you use QuickBooks 2007. QuickBooks 2007 is the only version of the software built to run on the new Windows Vista operating system."

So, if you haven't budgeted for an upgrade to QuickBooks, now might be the time to get current.

*"If you use QuickBooks,
do NOT upgrade to Vista until you buy QuickBooks 2007."*

*Pretty Smart Websites
Pretty, Smart Websites
Pretty. Smart. Websites.*

Delta Employees and Their Works Featured in True/False Festival

On Sunday, March 4, 2007, the Missouri Theatre hosted a one-time home town sneak preview of American Shopper, the “made-in-Columbia story of an unlikely new sport – “aisling” – and those who put their grocery carts to the test to become its champion. At once funny and touching, Shopper is that rare hybrid that offers the best of both fiction and documentary.”

Delta’s own Aaron Marchbanks and his wife Kelley landed starring roles (and a bit more). We don’t want to give anything away, but the sold out show was enjoyed by all with the entire theatre erupting in laughter and applause repeatedly throughout the movie. For more details about the movie: <http://www.AmericanShopperMovie.com> If you click on “Cast” you’ll see information about Aaron and Kelley.

Brice Spencer, a sometimes Delta worker and full time video production magician at Woodcrest Chapel, shot and edited “Lights” - a short film that was written and created by several members of the Woodcrest Creative Arts Team. Originally made to support a weekend service message, the eleven minute film was trimmed down to two minutes and entered into the festival. It came in second place.

Watch the full version of “Lights” at <http://www.myspace.com/removethelenscap>

More info about True/False can be found at truefalse.org

Congrats to all!

Delta Systems Launches New Websites

Delta Systems Group is pleased to announce the following websites were recently launched or updated:

- 1) <http://www.MOPrairie.org>
 - a. All new look and feel; online donation form
- 2) <http://www.StudioSouthTanning.com>
 - a. We’re still adding text, but you get the idea.
 - b. You look pale. You should tan more. ☺
- 3) <http://www.SMSG.org/SUM>
 - a. Soon to be featured in the Columbia Business Times